“ I remember playing football with you Danny. We would return to class dirty, torn shirts and sometimes scratched up. You always gave your best. You were my friend in my youth so long ago. Thank you Danny for so much

“ *Danny, you were always such a sweet cousin.
Remember when you and Alex climbed that humongous tree on the north side of the house all the way to the roof 3 stories up. Y'all scared me silly!
I remember all us kids playing on the rock bench with the tree, out front.
Alex was stomping on a dead limb up in the tree while you pulled it from below. When it finally broke, you had a big wood chip in your face, close to your eye. You were such a brave sport, as blood trickled down your face. You really scared us then!
You and Alex must have been part monkey, climbing trees all the time and getting into trouble.
Love you!
