“ I met Dwight when my mother moved in across the hall from him. They were good neighbors to each other and he is truly missed. We were often table mates at Green Country RWC. The group will definitely miss his patriotism and friendship. See you in the great by and by.

“ I met Dwight in Houston 1977 at a laundromat we both used. He was reading a book. He loved books and so did I. We prowled Half Price Bookstore in Montrose for hours. He was my longest friend, and I'll miss him dearly. He was the only person to ever call and sing to me over the telephone. 🎵
