Far in the Distance

*Far in the distance, the sun now sets low, Always emitting it's soft pleasant glow,
Where has it gone, and when can we see,
The place where it lives, called eternity.*

*It seemed but a moment, it came into view,
Shedding the warm light, that dried up the dew.
It shined for the day, but suddenly twas gone,
Off to the somewhere, it vanishes till dawn.*

*Why did it leave us, alone and so sad?
Will it come again shortly, and make our hearts glad,
What will it look like, when it comes from its place,
Without sickness, or sadness, not even a trace.*

*Oh how we must yearn for its presents, so new,
For the warm gentle feeling, it brings into view.
Reaching out to us, all through the day,
Longing to hold us, in its warm gentle ray.*

*Twill not be long now, for the years swiftly pass,
We hold them now tightly, in the memories that last.
We'll wait for the daystar, that He promised would be,
Where it never comes night again, and eternity we'll see.*

“ Dear Ones, Please accept my condolence for your loss. I have many precious memories of my dear friend and sister in Christ. We spent many hours together quilting or around the piano singing gospel songs. I especially enjoyed the times her dad came to visit and joined in with guitar and Sharon on the accordion. She will be greatly missed and sad to see the empty pew but she was ready to go. With Gods love and mine Lola Palmer
